JEAN BOWMAN
Business Manager
The year is behind us and with each event we have been a part of the life of the school. Our daily life has been full and varied and we have tried to depict some of these moments for you.

Through the division pages we have picked a specific area to denote progress within each school. We have not tried to express growth in the entire field but only in one chosen area.

In years to come, when you glance again upon these pages, may the 1962 X-Ray recall for you some of the friendship, cares, and joys of your years spent here at M. C. V.

"All these for the first quarter?!"

Student Life

"Well—At least I'm comfortable when I study."
Must be term-paper time.

Part-time jobs in the Blood Bank keep students busy.

I hope I got that letter today!

at Medical College of Virginia

Let me talk to him when you finish.

Those wonderful weekends!
I thought it never snowed in Richmond!

A favorite of Randolph-Minor girls—Mrs. Martin.

Lab work — familiar to every M.C.V. student.
The Campus Room—well known and enjoyed by all.

A familiar gathering place for the medical students before class.

I wonder what's so interesting to the P.T.s. at the Junior-Senior picnic.

Spring is here—and the nurses eagerly make use of the sun deck.

...and now with graduation, the Seniors leave with memories of student days here that have been full and varied.
In the top picture is shown Dr. Hunter Holmes McGuire, founder of the University College of Medicine in 1893, which was consolidated with the Medical College of Virginia in 1913.

In the bottom picture is Dr. Stuart McGuire who was President of the University College of Medicine, 1905-1913; Dean, Medical College of Virginia, 1913-1919; President, 1919-1925; Chairman, Board of Visitors, 1932-1948.

These two men contributed greatly during their time to the progress of the Medical College of Virginia.
PRESIDENT OF MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA

The Medical College of Virginia owes much to the leadership of Dr. R. Blackwell Smith, Jr., its fourth President. An alumnus of MCV and a pharmacologist by profession, Dr. Smith has held several governmental positions and has served as Dean of the School of Pharmacy. As evidenced by the number of professional, scientific and honorary organizations in which he is active, his well-rounded social and professional life makes him a valuable citizen as well as an able educator and a progressive leader.

ROBERT BLACKWELL SMITH, JR., PH.D.
President

TO OUR 1962 GRADUATES:

The Centennial number of The X-ray in 1938 carried this dedication:

This, the twenty-fifth volume of The X-ray and coincidentally the Centennial issue, is respectfully dedicated to that inborn interest in the teaching, healing, and caring art which has so fostered and continued throughout our century of existence. Commencing with that initial year and early time in 1838, dreams have gradually materialized into fabric of sterner stuff, until now at the beginning of the second century of progress the Medical College of Virginia carries on through its teachers, its student body, and its alumni, the same transcending love for medicine which has persisted, maintained, and directed it for a hundred years.

Now, as we approach our One Hundred Twenty-Fifth Anniversary year, let us hope that our students, our faculty, and our alumni may still maintain that same "transcending love for medicine", for the associated professions, and for the College that will enable all groups to work together and strengthen the ties that will bind them on a forceful team, able to understand the traditions of our past and to accept the challenges of our future.

Sincerely yours,
President

STUDENT HEALTH SERVICE

The Student Health service of the Medical College of Virginia provides medical care for all students. At some time, almost all of the students seek the help of Dr. William Kay, student health physician, and Miss Edith West, student health nurse. Services provided by this department include immunizations, x-rays, treatment of medical problems when they arise and hospitalization when necessary.
Dr. E. Clifford Nelson lectures to the sophomore medical students.

Dr. Richard H. Kirkland enjoys dinner in the Campus Room.
Ambroise Paré, "Father of Surgery," is shown in center of the top picture. It was during his time that there was a revival of interest to provide better techniques in the field of surgery. The reintroduction of ligatures for tying blood vessels was one of Paré's many achievements. His observations, experience, research and writings provided many of the fundamentals for new developments.

Through progress during the years, today's operating room is modern and well equipped. Sterile instruments and techniques are being used with the best known up to date surgery being performed.

Top picture: This is a detail from a painting in a series on the History of Medicine, (1959), Parke, Davis & Company.
DEDICATION

It is with great appreciation to Dr. Frederick B. Mandeville that the 1962 class of medicine dedicates its section of the annual to him, for his many years of service as a teacher and clinician at the Medical College of Virginia.
This motley group of people in the Medical Class of 1962 is presented for graduation from the Medical College of Virginia with the:

C.G.—four long years of medical school
H.P.I.—Our troubles began four years ago when we started the first year of medical school. We had too much material to learn in too short a time. Tests and examinations occurred far too frequently. The faculty did not understand our problems. After two years of the so-called preclinical years we entered the anxiously awaited clinical years. In essence we jumped from the frying pan into the fire. Our work load increased. We were shaking masses of protoplasm who could please neither the faculty nor the housestaff, much less the patients. These are only a few of our many complaints.
R.O.S.—see the Dean’s Office for a more detailed evaluation.
P.M.H.—We are allergic to National Board examinations, retractors, the “routine”, blood work, E. G. Williams nurses, the Dean’s curriculum committee meeting, St. Philip’s obstetrics, working every other night, etc. We have never had any operations but we’ve seen quite a few, even signed a book after seeing one. For four years we were hospitalized at the Medical College of Virginia for questionable causes. Several of us have thought we had leptospirosis, tsutsu gamushi disease, etc., but no real epidemics of these diseases have broken out yet.
O.H. & S.M.—We have no real occupation at present. Over the past four years we’ve been drinking and smoking more and more. So far not one case of esophageal varices or carcinoma of the lung has been reported from our group.
F.H.—Must we go into this? The Dean’s Office gets all this information yearly.

CONCLUSION—For years we have been trained in the practice of medicine and surgery. The time has come for all of us to assume more responsibility and benefit our society by our services.

All of us will intern. Then, many will go into some specialty training program, others will practice general medicine, and still others may become devoted to research or academic medicine. Whatever our goals remember we represent well-trained, highly specialized, potentially capable individuals. Our deeds in the future will reflect upon us and our previous medical training.

We of the Senior Class of Medicine of 1962 are overjoyous at the thought of graduation; however, the real test comes with our internship and later role in life. Let’s not forget the friends and pleasantries of our medical school. We may need each other for consultation in the not too distant years.

The class of ’63 with a handful of West Virginians and the survivors of a two year academic war, jumped with a sigh of relief into our Junior year. Knowing that quality made up for our lack of quantity, we pushed our ivy league suits into the back of our closets, suppressed the memory of odoriferous dog lab and found ourselves right smack face to face with a new medical entity—the patient. We donned white pants (formerly a privilege not allowed to the Juniors) and picked up our Merck Manuals. We were ready. Some even wore white shirts and ties, looking not unlike residents.

This was the year that we discovered the meaning of Combined Lectures—a sinister and diabolic scheme to yank us from under warm covers before the break of dawn, and to keep coffee sales high in the Campus Room. At times, in a gesture of defiance, we slept right before the eyes of our lecturers.

On some warmer mornings we were distracted by the amphitheater located at the steps of the Campus Room. Right there a big new building grew out of a hole in the ground before our very eyes.

Doctors and Medical students are busy people. They prove this by using abbreviations wherever possible. After a short while we were translating charts which presented us with such things WN, WD, G18-P18, Bid, ICS, LMCL,AV, WNL, GD, and SOB.

Methods of diagnosis and treatment change but some clinic nurses will last forever. Perhaps time weakens vocal cords but proof is yet to come.

Some clinics were very selective in their patients. ENT never seemed to have any patients with vocal cords, but it probably did not really matter since most of our mirrors were focused on the walls most of the time. Urology taught us how to “run ’em up from 16-28”, Pediatrics taught us how to duck April Showers. And as echoes of Peter Bent Brigham bounced against the editorials of the free press we drifted slowly into the realm of the healing physician.

Gorged with the knowledge of our first year, aware of our abilities and possible disabilities, confident of our possible lack of confidence, and filled with a keen sense of accomplishment, we met our new year. Perhaps the purpose of all education is to direct our method of thought so that our ideas, based upon a limited amount of previously acquired knowledge, may be utilized for some useful purpose. This purpose is generally accepted to be the betterment of mankind. Being a link in the long chain of education, we too, were overwhelmed with diverse facts of practical knowledge. For example, we now know that Hardy-Weinberg didn’t write “The Twist”—That our vast knowledge of the pathology of muscle can usefully be transferred to the buying of beef steak—That our oral cavity, which we consider to be our most valuable asset, although used rather indiscriminately at times, just isn’t clean—That John Birch isn’t a plant, and the finesse of Montavoni can well apply to the laboratory methods of clinical pathology.

A happy man is one who has too high a spirit to be burdened by his absurdities of today and looks forward to tomorrow as a new day. A sophomore in medical school is a man too bewildered to be cumbered by today’s absurdities and can look forward to repeating the same ones tomorrow.

So it was. We had our happy days, and we had our sad days. Which ones predominated we don’t care to remember, for it really doesn’t matter. The important thing is that another page of our history has been written and lost irreversibly to time.

No history of our class would be complete unless we made particular reference to one of us who because of events beyond his or anyone’s control, was unable to enjoy the privileges that he was granted. May his gentle and gracious manner be remembered by all of us.

“Every man’s misfortunes concern us, for we are concerned with mankind. So ask not for whom the bell tolls. It tolls for thee.”

September 6, 1961, eighty-three freshman medical students with “Big Daddy Gray” clutched tightly as possible to conceal shaking hands, walked hesitantly for the first time into Gross Lab to meet a silent friend or enemy.

The same afternoon saw “The Eighty-three” saunter in for an introduction to that crisp course, Histology, not realizing that the pathway of minute detail to the eight layers of the retina could only be successfully traveled by diligent observation of a thousand of EM’s slides, accompanied by the thousand pages in Ham.

The axilla down, the head and neck gone, and the long tube collecting dust, found eight-two tract weary minds trying to sort nuclei and reflexes with the aid of two rather improbable tools . . . colored clay and wire screening.

Our endeavors were brought to a grinding but welcome halt by a twisting Christmas party and a well deserved vacation, overshadowed only by the haunting thought of national boards in February.

The air of relaxation which was so prominent between Thanksgiving and Christmas was a thing of the past after the holidays. A scheduled series of weekly tests plus the appearance of Biochemistry in the schedule was stimulus enough to once again quiet down the halls, burn lights late at night, and put everyone on his best academic behavior.

With only March, April, and May to go before the close of undoubtedly a most traumatic yet eager academic year, the wise words of Solomon, when heard, held our around the clock attention.

A bond exists among these eighty-two individuals who are all striving toward the same goal—a bond of pride. Pride not only in our accomplishments as individuals but as a class. Coupled with determination and hope, this pride of ours may realize in 1965 a graduating class of eighty-two members from the School of Medicine.

The top picture illustrates an antique dental chair and cuspidor stand, which was used in the early days.

Through progress and development in the field of Dentistry, the dentist of today has available to him the most modern equipment and techniques—direct lighting, high speed drill, air-water syringe, readily accessible marble table, aseptic methods—all giving better comfort and safety to the patient.
DEDICATION

We, the senior dental class of 1962, proudly dedicate our section of this yearbook to you. For your teachings, research, friendship and examples of untiring dedication to the profession, we are sincerely grateful.
In September of 1958, eighty bright, shiny faces entered the freshmen class. Everyone had that lost, “I know nothing”, frightened expression. We knew nothing and as we progressed into our freshmen year, gross anatomy, biochemistry, bacteriology, and a few others proved it. But, we celebrated the completion of each with a victory party at Tom’s Cavern.

As sophomores, we began to realize that dentistry was more than just “filling” and “pulling”. Dr. Boyd’s whip in Crown and Bridge kept us on edge most of the year, and Dr. Salisbury made sure no one was insulted by missing the “denture of the week club.” The pass word became “party” so we joined fraternities and did just that.

The junior year we diverted our attention from the dentoform to patients—and what a change. Our mistakes were now answered with “groans” and “extractions”; and of course that old familiar statement “you gotta do it over” was still heard. No one could be qualified to be a senior until Dr. Fitzhugh had spent an afternoon in his cubicle.

The senior year had finally arrived and we felt like “big shots”. A few days in the clinic and we found out we were still just midgets with enlarged brains. Everyone was trying to beg, borrow, or steal charts. Requirements had to be met!

Finally we began wondering what to do after graduation—service, internships, or general practice. Whatever our choice, we were proud to be seniors and just hoping we were worthy to accept the title—Doctor!

As we, the class of '63 emerged into junior year, a new era had definitely begun in our lives. For the first time we would be working on actual human beings, and not just plastic models or extracted teeth. We had heard from seniors about how easy the junior year was, but this thought rang with a rather dull tone as we welcomed "the big seven" into our class. We greeted our first patients with faces that reflected confidence in our knowledge and skill; and these same faces served to shield neurocraniums filled with doubt and anxiety. We possessed a mass of knowledge which had been well spatiulated over our first two years, but the question was, "When was it going to gel?" Fortunately, we found that our professors, many of whom we met for the first time, had an almost endless amount of patience and understanding.

When the initial shock of the clinic had subsided and we were able to see through the fallout, many of us discovered that we had "borderline" averages on certain "pop" tests. We began to realize that this course could not be mastered by just studying while riding to school—particularly if you had to play that familiar guessing game as to whether the "goat lot" would be open or not.

Factors that brightened our morale at school this year included a brand new lounge, filled with silent chefs and just-as-silent bridgeplayers—much to the dismay of the lunchtime conversationalists. There were also various amusing patients, as Graham can testify; and certain astounding qualities were discovered, too, such as Padgett's patient's patience.

Life outside of school was characterized by the dwindling of the already ravaged ranks of the class bachelors. Most of those who were left moved out of the dormitory and clumped together in various fortresses out in the city. When the news of Julie Mett's engagement reached the boys at Westwood, we had to force ourselves to become cognizant of the fact that the strongest walls of bachelordom could be undermined.

As we flick on our lights for the final check that we hope will inactivate the year, among the thousand thoughts that cross our minds, the most prevalent is the wonder of how life will be as a Senior and what our final year holds for us.

A college professor once stated the following about the class distinction within the schools of higher learning.

"The freshmen-an insecure group of society, constantly watched and coached by the faculty. Those which are the most pushed, puzzled and pursued.

The juniors-a higher bracket of society usually classified as an upperclassman, who are far too wise to be informed but not infallible enough to be corrected.

The seniors-the elite, the pride of the faculty. Quiet and reserved, not to lose their status, and cautious to fulfill all their requirements.

The sophomores-ah, the sophomores, the unfortunate group of the society. They are experienced enough so as not to be classified with the freshmen, but hindered in knowledge so as to be an upperclassman; for these poor neglected people who walk the halls unnoticed by all except their tiring professors we pay due respect."

This statement we considered appropriate for our class history, because it has summed up the years we have and will spend at M.C.V. Correct, we do walk around confused and unnoticed, for we are yet unable to put the amazing puzzle of medicine and dentistry to practice. But our time is soon coming when we too will take our place in the clinic and sophomores-ah, sophomores no more...!

We as Freshmen took our stand on the threshold of a far-distant goal. The task was ours; we accepted the challenge and responsibility of being professional men.

The manifestations of this acceptance are still evident. We have been on the summit of triumph and personal self-satisfaction and in the throes of disappointment and disillusionment. Each student has progressed individually and it will be through his own personal effort that he will succeed.

By September, we had made the important decision to become students of Dentistry. Only in the ensuing months were we to discover that this decision meant hard work, work which we knew was necessary for a complete dental education. We also discovered that we must broaden our education socially. Hence, the first freshmen party was planned and carried through. These social weekends increased and soon they became highly anticipated events.

As for our classes, try to remember the nerve that was really a string, the first Histology practical, the "clock watcher" in Biochemistry, "Tic-Toe" in Neuroanatomy, the elevators in McGuire Hall, and the dentition of an African Wambat.

The barrier of our Freshman year has been hurdled, but not without the guidance of Dean Lyons and the faculty. We as a class would like to thank them for their sincere interest in each of us.

Since 1752, Pharmacy has gone far in establishing itself as an independent practice. With development of new methods and improvement of techniques, the Pharmacist has a professional status of which he can be proud.

Top picture: This is a detail from a painting in a series on the History of Pharmacy, (1954), Parke, Davis & Company.
DEDICATION

We, the seniors in the School of Pharmacy at the Medical College of Virginia, are proud to dedicate our section of the X-RAY to someone who has been behind us since we first enrolled in pharmacy school. He has been willing to assist us with all our many problems, whether they be of an academic or personal nature. In or out of the classroom, Dr. Warren E. Weaver is a true friend of the 1962 Pharmacy Seniors.
Four years have passed since the Class of 1962 entered MCV's School of Pharmacy. These four years have had their bad moments, but for the most part, we remember the lighter and more humorous things that happened rather than the horrible quizzes and bad grades.

Our freshman curriculum seemed to be made up mainly of biology and chemistry. When we weren't fooling around in the biology lab, we were usually in the organic lab playing with frogs or counting those silly fruit flies. Between these two courses, we were somehow able to learn a little English, a little algebra, and a lot of out-of-the-way facts about MCV and McGuire Hall. All our time wasn't spent with the books, however. We gave our first class party, the boys played on the softball team, and in general we had a good time.

The sophomore year found us struggling to learn organic chemistry, physics, English literature, and economics. Dr. Neuvo taught us what to be our first, but by no means our last, pharmacy math course. Our trouble in pharmacy math seemed to stem from the fact that our knowledge of the alphabet wasn't up to par, at least where X, Y and Z were concerned. Third quarter we finally had a pharmacy lab, and for weeks we worked at mastering the basic skill in pharmacy—taking the sensitivity of the balance. Fraternity rushing, pledging, and initiation were the highlights of the year for most members of the class.

The first two quarters of our junior year were centered around Galenical. We wrote up Galenical labs, we studied for 'pop quizzes' in Galenical, and we spent four hours a week making Galenical preparations. Even with all this effort, we never, according to Dr. Simonetti, had grades that made a properly shaped curve, which of course, is bell shaped. Along with Galenical we were able to squeeze in quantitative analysis, comparative anatomy, microbiology, and pharmacognosy in which we were thoroughly familiarized with the "digitalis story". We also tried to become experts in first aid, and surprisingly, we all survived being bandaged by our partners, although it got a little rough at times. The arrival of spring meant dispensing and the Ring Dance to the juniors. The Ring Dance was definitely more fun than dispensing. We seemed to enjoy sticking yellow napkins in chicken wire to make a ring more than learning to price prescriptions and to make enteric coated pills.

The senior year presented a few academic hurdles such as biochemistry, physiology, pharmacology and organic medicinal. Besides these courses there was specialties, and each senior had a true test of his ingenuity when, in order to properly identify a tablet, he had to devise a way to measure it with a ruler. We also spent an hour a week in Pharmacy 401, 405, and 406 better known as Odds and Ends. The night after the first senior practical was probably one of the most unforgettable of the four years at MCV. Almost the entire class decided to forget that horrible practical, and most were quite successful. Second quarter was started with an announcement that there would be an advance math class. Naturally everyone was delighted because we hadn't had a math class all year. During the year, seniors and Tom's became almost synonymous. This was because of an extra-curricular activity taken up by the majority of the class members.

June will find the Class of 1962 leaving MCV with many happy memories and proudly "carrying the image".

During this past school year the third year of our goal has been reached, but it was not as easy as the upperclassmen and teachers promised.

Quantitative analysis, which still causes many of us to shudder, was one of the first courses of the year. Pharmacognosy entrenched in our minds the glycosides of Digitalis purpurea and that spermaceti comes from the head of the sperm whale found in the Arctic Ocean.

Along with the pharmacy courses, Microbiology was taught us. We will never forget that staphylococci is spelled with a Y. Galenical with our rush in lab to finish our numerous preparations before the deadline will be remembered for some time with thoughts of exhaustion.

The excitement over class rings, new courses, parties, picnics and other class activities was not dampened by studies. We are anxiously awaiting next year, our senior year, and the challenges it brings, for we feel we are well prepared by our past three years in pharmacy school.

Since we are the first class to undergo the five year program, we are somewhat small in number. However, our class, having been supplemented by twelve transfer students, now totals twenty-four. All of us hope to fulfill the purpose of the program—to emphasize the physical aspects and the professionalism of pharmacy.

This year has been especially gratifying to us since we have had our first true pharmacy courses. In inorganic pharmaceutical we learned about the different compounds, and none of us will ever forget the final examinations in which there were a thousand and one compounds to learn. Many are the nights we have toiled over organic reactions and we will always remember the preparation in lab that caused us to be exceptionally sleepy. Then, of course, there were those conversions in pharmacy math and the various methods of aliquoting. Quant and its many colored end points always offered a challenge. Last, but not least, were the comparative tests to which no one seemed to know the correct answers.

As sophomores, we are beginning to more fully understand the responsibility of the pharmacist in the community. We now have two more years and then we will take our place in the community to serve as part of the health team—as pharmacists.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

When we arrived with the expectation of a large freshman class, we were very surprised to find only twenty-nine members. This was such a small class we knew that it must be one of quality and not of quantity. However, there was soon doubt of this after our first series of tests.

Figuratively speaking, we were all in the same boat and sinking fast. Therefore, we adopted the motto “Student Cooperation for Graduation”. We began studying harder and our next series of tests showed a marked improvement.

After this adjustment period from our former colleges to M.C.V., we began to feel that we belonged. We are very grateful for our opportunity to study pharmacy on the five year program. We will try to live up to the confidence and hope expressed in us by our teachers, parents, and community. As we look forward to the coming years at M.C.V. we will be ever mindful of a story told to us by Assistant Dean, Frank Pitts, on Orientation Day.

This was the story about the frogs falling into a bucket of milk that was to be churned into butter. One of the frogs became discouraged, stopped kicking, and sank to the bottom. The other frog kept kicking, forming a piece of butter. He floated on the top with it and lived. We, too, will try to kick just a little harder while anxiously awaiting our graduation in 1965.

In existence today is the Great Room of the Poor, a part of the Hôtel-Dieu of France, founded in 1443. In this room, during the medieval times, Sisters of the Congregation of Sainte Marthe, wearing habits, according to their order, cared for the sick.

With the rise of modern hospitals to provide treatment for the sick, there became a need for trained nurses. The School of Nursing, here at MCV, is among many helping to fulfill this need by its training program. The nurses can be seen caring for the patients, graciously and competently.

DEDICATION

For her encouragement and loyalty to all, her sincere interest and participation in all activities, her spirit to get the job done, and most of all her untiring efforts as an active class sponsor for four years; we the Class of 1962 dedicate our portion of the X-RAY to Miss Pauline Ann Steigleder.
Patient: Class of 1962  Race: White  Age: Twenties
Parent (Guardian): School of Nursing  Telephone Mi 4-9851
Present Address: Randolph-Minor Hall
Previous Address: You-Name-It, U.S.A.
To: All interested
Agency: Medical College of Virginia
Admitted: September 1958  Discharge: June 1962

Diagnosis and Treatment:
Fifty-six well developed females admitted for treatment of “desire to become nurses”. Have been treated for past four years by experiences in various services. Tend to be a little hyperactive, Punitive measures taken first year but they were unsuccessful. They have participated in a variety of activities which have shown ambition, willingness to serve, and individuality. Thirty-seven of the patients to be discharged in June; others departed previously not desiring further treatment. Prognosis of the remaining thirty-seven is good.

Recommendations:
1-Plenty of rest and good food
2-Fresh air
3-Encourage social activities
4-Tender loving care

By: W. E. Finally-Made-It, M.D.

Summary of Hospital Information:
During past four years these nurses have presented symptoms of fatigue, malnutrition, and frustration. Miss Ann Steigleder was elected and served as their advisor for four years. Her encouragement made the treatment easier to tolerate. The largest undertaking was the Silver Christmas Ball which was very successful. They have had much experience in the hospital and various courses, giving them a well rounded education.

Agency Report:
The opportunities available for these young women are vast. The Class of 1962 seems well prepared to meet the obstacles and trials which will face them. They seem ready, willing, and able to meet whatever the future holds.

With the donning of new white uniforms, accentuated by the long awaited caps, our lives as juniors began. Little did we realize that first day what the year stretching before us held hidden in its grasp. However, as we proceeded to Psychiatry, Operating Room, Pediatrics and Obstetrics, we were soon initiated to the wonders, problems and techniques of each of these services.

Now we could better understand the values of direct and indirect interview, basic principles of sterile technique, why people react to various situations as they do. As we chased little boys and girls all over 9th floor and set up an operating room for an emergency case, uppermost in our thoughts was the statement, “Med-Surg was never like this!”

Problems arose, problems were solved. We were more on our own and often found that thinking for ourselves was somewhat more difficult than we had anticipated.

After all, how should we know whether the surgeon wanted a hemostat or a Kelly, or how we could manage to give a kicking, squirming, biting boy an injection without too many consequences. Gradually we gained confidence in ourselves and with added responsibility began to rely more and more on our own judgment.

The year was not all work and no play. Class parties, old fashioned gab sessions and class projects were some of the activities of the year. Discussions about the Junior-Senior breakfast consumed much time as did speculation of how we would present the next year’s Christmas Dance.

Rapidly, our Junior year began to draw to a close. Once again we looked forward to vacation time and the knowledge that soon we would advance into our senior year, symbolized by the addition of black bands to our caps of white.

In September, 1961, sixty-six young women—two married, several with diamonds, some with frat pins and the rest of us still hoping—entered the Sophomore year at the Medical College of Virginia.

The watchword for our first quarter was eagerness. The Associate sophomores were eager to wear that cherished black band, while the Baccalaureate sophomores watched enviously from behind a blue uniform. This year we would be “bluebirds”, but next . . . These Baccalaureates were eager to have that hospital experience underway, at long last. And could it be possible that there were just nine more months of happy hours spent in Psychiatry, Pediatrics and such, before graduation day for our Associates?

Anxious might well describe the second quarter of our Sophomore year. Nervousness for these budding nurses could be attributed to the watchful eye of instructors and those procedures we should have read. Christmas was right around the corner, though, and with it came parties, exchanging gifts, singing carols and, of course, the Christmas Ball.

After a long, hard second quarter of academic work, spiced generously with excitement and fun; we emerged a little more tired, a little less nervous—maybe even a little more skilled.

The spring quarter was marked by new determination and “spring fever.” The Associates were counting the days until graduation, while the Baccalaureate girls were suffering from “acute nursitis”. This condition was marked by less nervousness, more skill and finally learning to improvise and to use reflective technique.

The summer quarter will bring walks in the park, sunbaths at Randolph-Minor and those luscious trips to the beach. The final quarter of our Sophomore year will also bring new skills to be learned, more experience in the hospital and finally trading in the blue uniform for that long-awaited white uniform and cap.

As we look back, we realize that this year has been hectic, exciting, and successful—a very significant year in our lives. We have moved one step higher on the ladder toward our goal. We are newly inspired and warmed when we realize that:

“Girls in dresses of blue,
The Great Physician
Is working through you.”

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

This year we were college freshmen. More important, we were repeatedly reminded, we were now college women who were on our way to becoming graduate nurses. We had serious business ahead.

Earnestly we got down to the solemn proceedings, and for a while we did solemnly proceed. With sincere effort and sobering effect, we wrote our philosophies of life. At the same time, we were directed to the library to read philosophies of nursing in hopes that each of us would arrange some resemblance between her own philosophy and that of her future profession.

As we discovered the duties and responsibilities of nursing, our minds were sobered by the weight of the task ahead; yet our hearts were fired to perform with distinction.

Being a rather frisky group of young ladies, however, there were moments when the fine zeal of our ambition wore thin. For a short while it seemed that the Freshman Class had abandoned all serious effort and were bent on achieving notoriety as merrymakers. We frolicked during study hours; we made NOISE during quiet hours. We pranced up and down the halls lubricating door-nobs with peanut butter, and time after time we were reprimanded for the fiendish delight we seemed to find in "stealing" the elevator.

Then came November, wielding a threatening big stick labeled "Exams." With due respect, we freshmen scurried to our desks and prepared. The critical moment came; we revealed what we had learned. Then, having disem bodied our minds and souls, we pressed homeward to recuperate from the ordeal during Thanksgiv ing.

Returning from the holiday we were welcomed with a new, unspotted quarter. Freshmen souls were kindled anew with determination not to blot this one.

As the swing back into classes gained momentum the Baccalaureate students formed a quite intimate acquaintance with "dear Froggy", while the Associates took for their bosom friend "Mister Cat".

To help liven the routine of study, a round of Christmas parties, traditional and otherwise, came to pty us eager freshmen from our books to join the festivity. This season was made memorable as the time that the Freshman Class performed a small miracle. It happened on the night of the December Student Association meeting, when lo and behold, it became evident that the Freshman Class was holding the attention—the amused and delighted attention of the entire assembly by their inspired and hilarious acting ability.

In January we began the new year with a somewhat more dignified and sage approach, having achieved by this time a more effective intermingling of skylarking and hard work.

Second quarter wore on; vivacity ran low. Then, as it dawned on us that the year was more than half over for the majority of our class, we straightened up and peered around to see what we had accomplished. By this time the Associate students had learned to give shots with professional skill and unparalleled nonchalance. In chemistry lab, tense Baccalaureate freshmen had completed titration with finesse—a half-drop of this, then a half-drop of that.

From these and other observations we concluded that we had achieved many things to be proud of. Most rewarding of all was the feeling that we had earned the honor of being referred to as young women and nurses-to-be.

Bohemian Holiday

Don't we look professional?

Oh! He called at last.

Step right up folks.

Where are the boys?
Dr. Simon Baruch, Father of Hydrotherapy and a graduate of M. C. V., began in 1891 through lectures and publications to give a better explanation of the therapeutic value of water. Today, physical therapists use many of his ideas as a basis for part of their treatments. His son, Dr. Bernard M. Baruch gave, in honor of his father, funds for the establishment of the Baruch Center of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation here at M. C.V.

As a result of Simon Baruch’s work in the field of hydrotherapy, the lower picture shows a patient getting a treatment in the Hubbard Tank, utilizing the therapeutic value of water.

School of Physical Therapy
DEDICATION

His example of excellence in the practice of medicine has been an inspiration to us all. As a teacher, he has been unsurpassed, maintaining our interest even at 8:00 in the morning. Because he has treated us with respect, we have gained confidence in ourselves and pride in our profession. For his enthusiasm and endeavors in behalf of each of us and our school, we dedicate our section of the 1962 X-Ray to Dr. Frederick E. Vultee, Jr.
SEPTEMBER, 1960, found us gathered in Memorial Hall anxiously awaiting the beginning of the transition period which would turn us into physical therapists. For the most part we were strangers—at least we knew little of each other. We had a common goal, though—to become a part of the evergrowing profession of physical therapy. This goal would lead us through the next two years.

Our Junior year was hard. The more we learned, the more there was to learn. We knew that if we managed to sit through it we would be on the last lap of a long race—a race at the end of which were the initials R.P.T.

Somehow we did get through it. Then we were Seniors! It was a little frightening to realize that only a year remained in which to prepare ourselves for our chosen profession. As graduation approached however, we realized that our learning would not stop in June but would continue throughout our careers.

In looking back over our years here, there are many memories which we will keep along with those of our work—"intimate interviews"—rotating affiliations—"speech class"—Christmas party PUNCH—The Baruch Scoop—Neuroanatomy—"How to be professional"—diamonds and wedding bands—attempts at ice skating—snow-bound in Washington—summer affiliations.

Coming from as far west as California and as far south as Georgia, twenty-four students enrolled in the School of Physical Therapy at the Medical College of Virginia, in September, 1961.

We soon discovered what it meant to be in a professional school. We soon knew that this was a college in name only. We had to rise in the mornings with the chickens and go to bed as the late show watchers did.

We came from a variety of college backgrounds. We had to learn some basic fundamentals so that we could build on a similar, solid foundation. We found that we did not know the English language much less logical order.

We were looked upon as professional colleagues and were expected to act as such. The classes were informal and the faculty most understanding. Between Dr. Vultee’s curbstones and Mr. Taylor’s “stuff”, we were very relaxed in the classroom.

Every once in a while, a very high pitched laugh would break out, or the room would seem like Rudolph were there—a voice with a mountain accent would shatter the silence—at the break between classes “Stop that twisting! You know those muscles were not attached for that!”

We have had much fun this year. Like she said, “Never lose your sense of humor!” Now that our muscle designs are finished, we “ninkapoos” may travel on to our senior year.

The first separate hospital of the University College of Medicine was organized in 1861. The building is shown in the top picture. In 1874 the hospital was called the Church Institute and its management passed to a board of women representing the various charitable associations of Richmond. In 1895 the building was named the Old Dominion Hospital. At that time no trained hospital administrators existed. The management of hospital's was performed by people willing to devote their time. In many instances, doctors and nurses assumed this responsibility, dividing their time between their professions and the direction of the hospital.

Today's hospitals are highly specialized and departmentalized institutions, requiring skilled and trained persons to manage full time their general activities and functions. To help meet this need, the School of Hospital Administration sends out trained hospital administrators yearly. Among the many alumni holding top position is Mr. Alfred Burkholder, administrator of the new Bedford County Memorial Hospital, Inc., which is shown in the lower picture.

the X-RAY to you.
SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

We came . . .

Stepping from all walks of life, we gathered informally in front of the Egyptian Building; we had one goal in mind—to become hospital administrators. It was not long before we found that our ideas of good hospital administration were nebulous. We had much to learn.

We saw . . .

The year’s academic program has been as diverse as our backgrounds: accounting, finance, law, medical service, research, statistics, and management.

Who can forget our confusion over legal parlance? Some looked for the “statue of frogs” for days before discovering that our law instructor was, in fact, referring to the Statute of Frauds.

Touring has played an important role in supporting this academic phase of our learning and has familiarized us with such awesome things as the great god maxitron, the clinicopathological conference, and the Supreme Court of Virginia.

We were enlightened . . .

There is only one kind of patient care—the best. There can be no compromise in this respect. Our job will be to provide the best patient care at the lowest possible cost.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Time ... Time ... Time. So much to learn with so little time. From varied walks of life we come—a Peruvian physician, an Air Force Major, a Richmond drug salesman; all individuals but with one primary objective basic to all. That one driving force, that one innate desire is to learn, in nine short months, those fundamentals so necessary to "provide the best patient care possible". This ideal, inherent in one and all, quickly transformed fifteen men of heterogeneous backgrounds into a closely knit unit desiring to make the Class of '63 the best ever.

Accounting, Hospital Law, Personnel Management, Medical Records, Anatomy, Field Trips—all were important, each contributing a vital part in moulding what was to become our working knowledge and later our philosophy of Hospital Administration.

With the advent of June, we go our separate ways and for a period of fifteen months put into practical application those fundamentals of administration which we have acquired. It will not be easy—worthwhile objectives rarely are. Each will have his moments of glory, each his share of frustration and failure. Thus each, in the final analysis, will have done his full measure of introspection and self-assessment. The product of which, we hope will be a man better qualified to assume the responsibilities of Hospital Administration, and in whom the Medical College of Virginia may justly be proud.

New York trip - Class of '62
The technologist holding tube and pipet is using the older method for determining blood sugar. It involves precipitation, filtration, boiling, and reading in a spectrophotometer—this requiring much time and equipment.

All of the above steps have been eliminated by the new autoanalyzer as shown in the lower picture. The serum enters the machine at one end and the blood sugar is recorded on the chart at the opposite end.
DEDICATION

To our devoted director whose personal interest in the field of Medical Technology has given us inspiration and encouragement in our daily endeavors, to our loyal and patient friend who has given faithfully and untiringly to the advancement of our education, to this man, Dr. Henry G. Kupper, we gratefully dedicate our portion of the 1962 X-Ray.
In retrospect, the Medical Technology class of 1962 must describe the past year as one of anticipation, frustration, inspiration, and disappointments, coupled with learning experience and termination in victories.

Could you possibly imagine a more descriptive picture of anticipation than a group of approximately twenty bright-eyed, white-clad girls with wild visions of needles, syringes, blood, and, oh yes, those other body fluids which were daringly whispered by only a few. This momentous occasion was surpassed only by our first day in the hospital, where our determination to become successful “vampires” prevailed even though we knew we were shaking more than the patients.

Perhaps some of the experiences of the year should be described as massive frustration. The daily races for the spectrophotometers or the centrifuges served to keep us always alert to say the least. Each of nineteen girls trying to get to the four spectrophotometers first—and they told us it couldn’t be done. Not to be overlooked are the many occasions when time seemed to stand still during our daily lectures, which were often accompanied by nodding heads, and restricted Tuesday nights spent in preparation for endless tests.

However, all was not work and pressure, as was demonstrated when the Med. Techs served as hostesses for the Open House in the new school. Then time seemed to slip by, and before we knew it Christmas lights were glowing in the lab, and the annual party found everyone twisting the lounge.

Learning experiences along the way kept our incentive high, and so we came face to face with the dreaded final exams. Sighs of relief were heard as the six months of academic training ended in victory. With true inspiration and determination we began rotating through the labs in the hospital in order to obtain our practical training. Now we look to the future with renewed anticipation of the time when we can take our place as a useful part of the medical team.

DEDICATION

Because of your sincere interest in all the students as individuals,
   Because you are an outstanding symbol of the ideals of the Medical College,
   Because of your untiring and unselfish devotion,
   Because we want you to know of our appreciation for all the things that you have done in our behalf,
   We dedicate our portion of the 1962 X-RAY to you.
The School of Graduate Studies was formally organized in January, 1957.

The function of our graduate studies program is to cooperate in the conservation, dissemination, and augmentation of knowledge of students who show promise as teachers and research workers.

The graduate student’s work is highly specialized and individualized; and the graduate courses, seminars, and conferences in which he works are small with close contact with his teachers.

The students in this program are offered many educational opportunities; association with a senior investigator who is the adviser; learning to formulate a hypothesis and test it through a sound research design; learning techniques; sharing ideas with others through seminars, scientific literature, scientific meetings, etc.; and practising the curiosity, objectivity, and humility that scientific research demands.

DIETETIC INTERNS

The Medical College of Virginia Hospital offers a one year course in hospital dietetics to young women who have a B.S. degree from an accredited college or university and who can meet certain specific course requirements. The course is approved by the American Dietetic Association, and upon completion of the course, interns are eligible for membership in the Association, and may hold positions in class "A" hospitals in the capacity of administrative, therapeutic, clinic, or teaching dietitians.

Each September, the course is begun and students live in one of the college dormitories. During training, students receive a mixture of lecture and practical experience in the various departments. Instruction is given under the supervision of graduate dietitians in the Department of Dietetics.

After satisfactory completion of the course, dietetic interns are granted a certificate from the Hospital Division and are eligible for membership in the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association.

X-RAY TECHNOLOGY SCHOOL

The X-Ray Technology course consists of 24 consecutive months with two weeks vacation. The curriculum study is based mainly on physics, physiology and anatomy, radiographic techniques, special procedures, dark room chemistry and x-ray therapy.

The Student Government of the Medical College of Virginia is under the leadership of the officer of its student body and elected representatives from each class. Each year the student body officers are elected from the President of the four major schools.

THE 1962 X-RAY

In 1913, the first X-Ray was presented to the student body of the Medical College of Virginia. Throughout the years, this annual publication has given the students something concrete to which they can turn in their hours of reminiscing.

The annual serves as a valuable medium in uniting the various schools here at the college, for the staff is open to all students.

The X-Ray is governed by the students through the Board of Publications which elects the Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager.

HILLEL FOUNDATION

All Jewish students at the Medical College of Virginia may participate in the activities of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation. The program of the organization is primarily cultural, religious, and social in nature. Rabbi Raymond Drinsky, from the University of Virginia, is our regional and local advisor. Highlighting this year was our state-wide Hillel Spring Institute held here in Richmond.

Co-leaders of the group
Sondra Padow
Alan Goldfarb

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Led by Reverend Don Stanton, the nationally organized Wesley Foundation is the Methodist Church at work on M.C.V.'s campus. It strives to provide for and fulfill the spiritual and social needs of the students. The Wesley Foundation offers a program of weekly meetings, conferences, social activities, service projects, counseling, deputation, and other activities.

LAENNEC SOCIETY

The Laennec Society was formed to unite the Catholic Students of M.C.V. in fellowship and discussion of the spiritual and moral aspects of the practice in medicine and allied fields. This society was named for Rene Laennec, who gave classic descriptions of many intrathoracic diseases and who also invented the stethoscope.
BOYDSTON STUDENT UNION

The Boydston Student Union is an organization of Boydston students on campuses throughout the Boydston Convention. Its purpose is to help students maintain a "link" between their church at home and the campus. Fun and fellowship are a part of the B.S.U. program as well as the attempts to put the Christian way of life in the center of the students' campus life. Miss Marie Claypool is Director of the downtown schools in Boydston, which includes M. C.V.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

Led by field workers, Pat Whitener and Bob Martin from the Presbyterian School of Christian Education and Union Theological Seminary, Westminster Fellowship has just emerged from a period of re-organization. We now meet bi-monthly at Second Presbyterian Church for Young Adult Seminar which features outstanding speakers from the city. The evening is begun with dinner and ended with discussion groups to talk over the speaker's comments. During the month a recreation night is held which includes just about anything the group wants to do. The Westminster is essentially Presbyterian but all interested students are welcome. Our purpose is to serve Christ now during our student life.

CAMPUS VESPERS

In Richmond's historic Monumental Church, on the edge of M.C.V.'s campus, a reverent service of worship known as Campus Vespers is conducted each Tuesday at 6:30 throughout the school year. Outstanding speakers have been heard, and have met with the students after the service for informal discussions.
THE Y M C A

The Young Men's Christian Association at M.C.V. is one of six branches of the YMCA of Metropolitan Richmond. It works specifically with the faculty and students of the Medical College of Virginia.

The YMCA here on campus has been particularly active this year. Some activities include: organized and supervised athletic program, supervised social center, published "Live-Yer", instigated a leadership training program for school and class officers, held a reception for foreign students, host to Virginia-Carolina Student "Y" Leaders Conference, and cooperated with denominational groups in promotion of religious emphasis programs.

The "Y" Student Cabinet and the Board of Management are striving to do their part in fulfilling the symbols of the YMCA red triangle—spirit, mind, body; in other words, development of the "whole person", not just one particular phase.

HONOR COUNCIL

M.C.V. nursing students are active members of District III Student Nurses Association of Virginia. The NSNA, organized in 1953, is a national organization with state and district divisions. District III, with 225 members from the seven schools of nursing in Richmond and Petersburg, is only a small part of the 80,610 members of the National Association. It is the aim of this organization to aid in the development of student nurses as democratic citizens, to provide an opportunity to self-expression, and to stimulate an understanding of and interest in the programs of the graduate professional organizations.
The Student Dental Society was organized in its present form in the fall of 1946 and offers membership to all students in the School of Dentistry. The executive committee of the Medical College of Virginia chapter consists of the officers and two representatives from each class.

The chief objectives of the organization are the promotion of scholarship and professionalism among its members. A student loan fund is made available by the society for any student in need of financial assistance. Throughout the year, the society sponsors guest lectures for its members.
AMERICAN PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION
Medical College of Virginia Student Branch

The A.Ph.A. Student Branch at the Medical College of Virginia promotes organizational activities that benefit the profession of Pharmacy in all of its aspects of practice, research, and education, inter- and intra-professional relations, and economic and social advancement.

This year, the A.Ph.A. and V.P.A. have combined many of their activities to further promote the aims and ideals of our profession.

VIRGINIA PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION

The Student Branch of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association was organized by the students in 1955.

The association works in cooperation with the Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association to unite the students of pharmacy at the Medical College of Virginia for mutual assistance, encouragement, and improvement; to encourage high scholarship; to develop pharmaceutical talent and to elevate the standard of professional thought.

STUDENT AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
Medical College of Virginia Chapter

The Medical College of Virginia Chapter of the Student American Medical Association is a young club which has rapidly taken its place among the organizations of the school since it was formed in 1952.

The objectives of this organization are: to advance the profession of medicine, to contribute to the welfare and education of medical students on this campus, to strengthen the bond between the students of the Medical College of Virginia and the students of other medical schools, to make the members aware of the purpose and ideals of organized medicine, and to prepare them to meet the moral, ethical, and social obligations of the medical profession.

The Dames Club is an organization composed of the wives of the Housestaff, Medical, Dental, and Pharmacy Students. The Club meets once a month and gives programs of interest for housewives.

The Caduceusans are a social group composed of the wives of interns, residents and medical students from West Virginia and Virginia. The club meets once a month in the homes of the members.

Alpha Sigma Chi is an honorary society founded at the Medical College of Virginia in 1938. Its purpose is to serve the college and student body by providing an organization with lofty ideals entirely above smallness, politics, or personal favoritism and to create a spirit of fellowship and cooperation among the four schools.

Members are chosen from the Schools of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Nursing. Those chosen must meet high standards of leadership, scholarship, and character and demonstrate ability and willingness to carry on student activities.

An honorary member is chosen annually from among the faculty.

Alpha Zeta Omega, National Pharmaceutical Fraternity, was founded at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science in 1919. The local chapter, Omega Chi, was organized at the Medical College of Virginia in 1951.

"Having discovered that through intimate association with one another, and by practice of the virtues of mutual trust, sympathy, faithfulness, and unselfishness, we have been able to advance our profession, exalt our alma mater, and build strongly our individual characters, and being desirous of maintaining and expanding that principle of association and friendship and cooperation, Alpha Zeta Omega was founded."

Phi Delta Chi, National Pharmacy Fraternity, was founded at the University of Michigan in 1883. Alpha Delta Chapter was established at the Medical College of Virginia in 1925 and was active until 1954. It was reactivated in the fall of 1948, and since that time has functioned with increasing strength.

Throughout the United States, there are 13 chapters and 24 alumni or graduate chapters.

It was one of the fraternities which aided in the founding of the Professional Interfraternity Conference and the fraternity instrumental in the founding of Rho Chi National Pharmacy Honor Society.

Some twelve women from the School of Nursing and the School of Physical Therapy participated in women's varsity basketball this year. The group, coached by Miss Cathy Pendleton, played six games, coming out with a .500 average for the season. Joan Vaughan served as Manager of the team again this year.

Games included:
- MCV vs. William and Mary
- MCV vs. Quantico (two games)
- MCV vs. RPI (two games)
- MCV vs. Longwood College.

Some difficulty was met in scheduling games with other schools as women's basketball apparently isn't as extensive as is men's. Other schools often have established year after year schedules with certain other schools and to break into that "lineup" is practically impossible. However the entire effort was well worthwhile and our women represented MCV well!
TENNIS TEAM

The tennis team is one of the newest and most promising sports at the Medical College of Virginia this year. Through the combined efforts of students and Mr. Burt Parker, the MCV tennis team has developed into a competitive and well organized team.

Returning members from last years' team are: Sam Blanton, Jim Cook, Gary Daniels, Carroll Player, Bill Sandifer, Stan Toporek, Martin Troiano, Claude Whitehead and Captain Ray White. This year's scheduled matches included: Hampden-Sydney, Byrd Pard, Thomas Jefferson, St. Christopher and others.
